Guides gain hands-on know-how

Shirley Harms named new Chamber VP

By VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

"We need to get together and come up with a firm plan to promote business," Shirley Harms told fellow members, following her decision at the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce annual meeting to take the role of vice-president of that organization for the coming year.

Harms, who also served as VP for the 2005 term, feels the chamber "needs to set goals and focus on them, working with the town and economic development committee. We must make sure we have a strong front."

Harms joins three incumbents, president Sandy Smith, treasurer Lesia Porcina and secretary Vicki Brooker on the 2007 executive. One of her first actions on behalf of the chamber will be to follow up on a suggestion from Bob Bezpalko, that the members of the economic development committee's business and retention focus group be invited to give the chamber their input.

Another early priority for the chamber will be to hold their annual membership drive. The 2007 membership fee of $75 was set at the 2006 AGM, and membership application forms will be faxed out shortly. The chamber agreed to retain the same fee for 2008.

President Smith gave a rundown on the activities of the past year, which included participation in the Salute to the Energy Sector, hosting the first-ever Staff Appreciation Night, the third annual Shop Local campaign, the Canada Day breakfast and the Christmas Extravaganza. Progress on the train station project included the completion of blueprints, from which a three-dimensional mockup is now being assembled for display at an upcoming open house.

"The train station is at the forefront of my plans for this year," Smith said. "We definitely want to get Phase 1 completed."

Thomas Kondla suggested that another priority for the chamber this year would be to a centennial project to mark Elk Point's 100th anniversary of the arrival of settlers in the area. He gave a brief rundown on the community's early history, and said he felt a commemorative mural or a memorial to the pioneers would be appropriate.

Kondla brought along an inspiring short video, "Soaring to New Heights," which dealt with setting and reaching goals.

Two relatively new members of the business community were introduced at the meeting, Maria Cueva of the Hilltop Motor Inn and Andy Sidhu of Fort George Motel and RV Park.

Weather postpones task force visit

By VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

The runways were plowed, the parking lot at the Elk Point Seniors Recreation Centre was plowed, the coffee was on and the goodies were set out. All that was lacking at Friday's meeting with the provincial Affordable Housing Task Force was the task force themselves. That group was on its way back to Edmonton after their pilot found reduced visibility made it unsafe for landing.

Minister of Municipal Affairs Ray Danyluk and task force members William Persley and Larry Pempeit were able to reach Elk Point, as were over 40 individuals hoping to give their input on the housing crisis. Although the scheduled meeting could not go ahead without the task force, Danyluk invited everyone to share ideas in an informal discussion.

The influx of workers to

Alberta has brought unprecedented growth, and Persley says, "housing has never been in a more critical situation."

Suggestions for the creation of more housing ranged from building basement suites in existing homes, to setting aside public land for the construction of low-cost housing, and even to recycling massive shipping containers into housing units.

Demos, speeches win awards at annual 4-H competition

By VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Ten excellent speeches and six entertaining and informative presentations were on the agenda as Elk Point 4-H Multi Club held their annual public speaking competition on Sunday.

Senior speech and presentations judge Calvin Leckie said that with the "complete change in communications with technology, 4-H is the last place some important communication skills are exhibited." He said the senior speeches were "extremely well done. They were relevant, current and showed personal insight." The presentations came complete with "really quality" diagrams, charts and information, he added. Lorne Young and Lee Wruth also judged senior speeches and presentations.

Debbie Leckie, who judged junior and intermediate speakers along with Jim Purdy and Gary Tymofichuk, said she was "very impressed with the research" in the prepared speeches, and encouraged the speakers to use more eye contact and less cue cards.

Demos, speeches win awards

"There are lots of captivating smiles and eye contact in the impromptu. You need to do that with your prepared speeches."

In the senior division,

Robyn Ockerman placed first for the ATB Financial trophy with a prepared speech asking, "Life or Meth?" and an impromptu on her greatest fears. Hillary Dallaire took on another current topic in her prepared speech on bullying, which combined with an impromptu on "the secret to success" to take second place and the Servus Credit Union plaque. Tyson Ockerman also competed in the senior division, with a speech on the gun registry.

Intermediate speaker Alanna Ockerman presented a prepared speech on crystal meth and an impromptu discussing the perfect size of family, to win the CJ Petroleum plaque.

Top junior speaker, winning the Elk Point Review trophy for the second straight year, was Taylor Cochrane, who spoke on the ravaging effects of cancer on families, with an impromptu on smoking. Second place went to Ashton Ewasiuk, who told why she likes farm life and added an impromptu on her choice of the perfect name, to win the Woody's Trophy and Gift award. Wyatt Heathcote, Edna Kulczycki, Brett Ockerman and Britney Heathcote also spoke in the junior division.

Awards from Elk Point Community Lions went to winning presenters Bryant Schnurer and Ryan Mudryk, whose senior presentation explained the craft of taxi-dermy, intermediate member Darren Tymofichuk with a presentation on the recovery and rehabilitation of golf balls, and junior Nicole Tymofichuk, who explained how to create a crafty door knocker.

Other presentations were given by Marvin Ockerman, Tyler Ockerman and Seanna Ewasiuk.

Janice Tymofichuk was mistress of ceremonies for the afternoon, with Joanne Bepalko and Fae Irvine serving as timers and tellers and Lucille Smith as the impromptu assistant.

Five 4-H Awards of Excellence were presented on Sunday. Robyn Ockerman, Janice Tymofichuk and Bryant Schnurer accepted gold awards and Darren Tymofichuk a bronze award from Tyler Ockerman. Taylor Cochrane accepted a bronze award on behalf her sister Laryssa.

Task force

The shortage of housing has pushed rents and purchase prices to unheard-of levels, with assessment following suit. Danyluk noted that assessment of homes in Calgary has risen by 65 per cent in the past year.

"How do you even start [to buy a home]?" he questioned.

The task force has already received numerous suggestions on ways to provide incentives, from financial aid for first-time buyers to grants for those adding basement suites in their homes. They have also heard ideas on getting the money to provide assistance, including collecting a portion of real estate fees and the cost of land transfers.

The task force's visit will be rescheduled, hopefully to later this week, and all those who attended Friday's meeting will be notified.

Celebrating National Scout and Guide Week

Back at the rink after fun on the slopes

I'm back and all in one piece, I might add, from our little ski trip. Thanks to Vicki for covering for me while I was gone, she did an awesome job and it was a nice break from my real job. It sounds like we missed some very bitter cold weather while we were gone, -30 for a number of days. Down south in the mountains the weather was cold, but a lot better than here for sure. I don't know about you, but I've had just about enough of this winter, with its bitter cold days, heavy snowfalls and all that wind. Thankfully we have hockey to help make winter a little more tolerable.

By the way, have you noticed the kids playing on the outdoor rink north of the arena? These guys are having a ball and the cold doesn't seem to fizzle on them at all. Now let's see what's happening inside in the world of hockey.

By now you all know our teams have been eliminated from the provincials. It's a tough road to make it to the finals, our teams played well and we're very proud of the kids anyway. As they say in TO, better luck next year.

These guys can't whine about ice time, logging a full 60 minutes of hockey Saturday morning at home, the Micro Novice Tornados with only five players in the line up played the whole game against Vermilion. Ross Hawryluk and Hayden Gunderson each scored a hat trick.

The Midget Colts were beaten by Glendon in the first round of playoffs but have been placed in the bottom of the tier and still have another round to play in the near future. To keep their legs until this happens, they played our old friends the Pit bulls from Kitscoty in an exhibition game on this past Saturday that ended in a four-all tie. Sorry, but no one seems to remember who scored.

Review Sports

The Midget Girls Storm, who are playing a round robin format for their playoffs and will play four teams one game each, hosted North Battleford this past weekend. I don't know what was on it, but Catherine "the Great" Campbell scored the first one for the Storm, a more tolerable.

slap shot from the point that somehow turned into a knuckleball or a change up and totally fooled their goalie. Kaitlyn Roberts also scored her first goal of the year and her career, when she was set up nicely by Mindy Meger. What can you say about goalie "Awesome Amber" Axley doing another super job as she has done all year. And how about Robyn Stanley, Sarah Proski, Alyssa Harms, Tori Becker, Raven Quinney, Justyne Wozniak and Natalie Maas. If you've been watching the games since the beginning of the year you know for yourself, they have all shown some great improvement.

Lion or lamb?

March will be here in two short days, and that brings the traditional question, will it arrive roaring and blustering like a lion or gently trotting in like a woolly little lamb?

This is another of those situations like the prognostications of the groundhog just 26 days earlier, and about as reliable as a way to predict what sort of weather we can expect toward the end of March.

The only prediction for that time of year that can be made with any certainty is that the weather is likely to change from minute to minute, if not from day to day, and can rain, snow, hail, be foggy and sunny, all within the space of a few hours.

Fortunately, we all know that the unpredictable weather is a sure sign of the arrival of spring, and almost all of us is ready for that. Here's hoping it arrives soon.

WAY BACK WHEN...

Salt, song and scouting

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES OF THE ELK POINT REVIEW AND LAKELAND REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF FEBRUARY 27 IN...

1987

Rumors that the Canadian Salt Plant at Lindbergh was closing were quashed by spokesman Tom Melnyk, who said, "there is nothing of the kind on the horizon. The plant is producing more salt now than ever." Town council passed a parking bylaw prohibiting parking on the west side of 51 Street in front of A. G. Ross Arena.

1992

Commemorative mail arrived by dogsled after a grueling trip through the winter's worst weather, but was two days late for the Fur Trappers' Ball, where Rob Holliday's Bicentennial song had its debut, sung by Dennis Heffernan, Ed Poulin, Sam Donaldson and Holliday, accompanied by Gabe Bayduza on accordion. Elk Point Chamber of Commerce instituted a new Retail Merchants Special Events Committee, Vern King its first chairman.

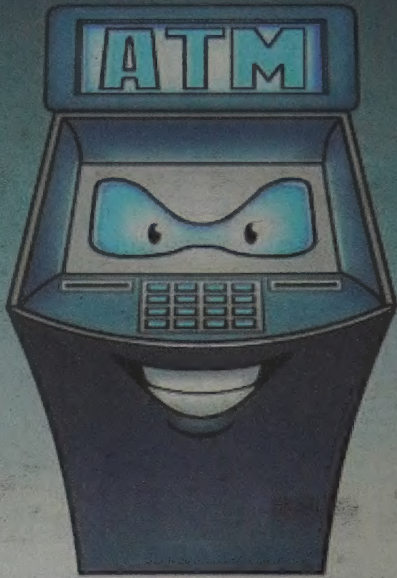

1997

Elk Point Scouting Association celebrated the movement's 90th birthday at their annual family banquet and cake auction where Beaver Colin Routhier, Cub Garret Zarowny and Scout Mathew Zarowny had the award winning cakes. County fire protection efforts were boosted by the donation of a 1989 fire truck with an 1,800 gallon water capacity from Norcen Energy Resources.

2002

Elk Point Chamber of Commerce passed a motion of support for the Alberta Cow-Calf Association's bid to have wildlife harvest preserves established in Alberta, which keynote speaker Harvey Aarbo said cold "put the elk back in Elk Point." Even if funding were available, there likely wouldn't be a physiotherapist willing to fill the vacancy at Elk Point Health Centre, Aspen Health rehabilitation managers told the Elk Point Interagency Health Committee.

THE NEW FACE OF ORGANIZED CRIME.

Income tax time again

We are so fortunate in Elk Point to have volunteers who are willing to become a part of the Community Volunteer Income Tax Program. Volunteering is an integral part of the Canada Revenue Agency's commitment to service. A number of people in Canada will always benefit from volunteers helping them to understand an honour their tax obligations, and above all, to receive the credits to which they are entitled. This program, which began in 1971, has been a growing success for 35 years. Thanks to the dedication of volunteers, it was recorded that last year, 15,836 volunteers participated in the Community Volunteer Income Tax Program, helping more than 477,000 people complete their returns.

deanna EASTHOPE
from the FCSS desk

In Elk Point, a group of volunteers attended a training session on Feb. 21 where a federal government National Revenue staff person from the Edmonton office came to conduct their training session. What this now means is that those persons who qualify for to receive help from our volunteers may contact the Elk Point FCSS office and drop off all their tax information. A volunteer will complete the income tax return for them.

Who qualifies to receive the volunteer service from the Community Volunteer Income Tax Program? This program offers assistance to individuals and families who meet the guidelines. With a family size of one person, the income may be up to $25,000. The income level then rises to a family of five persons where the income may be up to $37,500. The volunteer program does not complete returns with income from capital gains, farming income, rental income, self employment income, fishing income, bankruptcies, deceased persons and interest over $1,000.

At the training session in Elk Point, volunteers also learned of a service which informs Canadians and protect consumers. It is called the Financial Consumer Agency of Canada (FCAC). They can be reached by telephone, toll free at 1-866-461-3222, by e-mail at info@fcac.gc.ca or on the website, www.fcac.gc.ca

You may contact them if you have a question about financial products and services or about your rights and responsibilities as a financial consumer. FCAC's helpful staff can give you information, or suggest tools to help you save money. Their role is to protect you and to provide you with information about a variety of financial products and services. For more information, contact FCAC.

Speaking of income tax filing through the Community Volunteer Income Tax Program and learning about the Financial Consumer Agency of Canada, there is also another service which can be valuable. It is the Credit Counselling Services of Alberta Ltd. This not-for-profit service can help individuals develop money management skills, with budgeting, personal financial check-up, debt repayment strategies and programs and rebuilding credit. For more information call toll free, 1-888-294-0076.

Basically, what has happened to many Canadians is that we are exposed to so many opportunities and options for using credit. There are lines of credit, home equity loans, credit cards available from and useable at more businesses, cash advances, 'buy now, pay latter,' payday advances, higher credit limits and flexible "design your own" credit products. The debt obligations of the average Canadian household exceeds their income. Thus, at this income tax filing season, it is a good time to review the resources you need.

ELK POINT CENTENNIAL QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Slow mail for early settlers

What we today refer to as 'snail mail' would have seemed very fast and efficient to Elk Point's early settlers.

The first homesteaders found mail service both uncertain and far away - their nearest post office was in Vegreville. By 1907, they only had to go to Vermilion to post a letter.

According to Elk Point Reflections, in 1908, a post office and store owned by J. S. Valentine was established at Hopkins Ferry, about four miles upriver from the present bridge, and a Mr. Screeton brought the mail and freight from Vermilion. Miss Mary Ross was the first postmistress.

About the same time, a post office was established at Caskeyville, with P. Leveille hauling mail from Vermilion until 1910, when J. B. Caskey secured the contract.

In 1909, the first Elk Point post office opened on Charles Hood's farm (one half mile east of Highway 41 on 50th Ave.). At first, it took about two weeks for a letter posted here to get to Vermilion. However, residents successfully petitioned for twice-weekly mail service, which began May 1, 1911. The mail still came from Vermilion by way of Hopkins Ferry and Caskeyville until 1915, when the Elk Point Ferry began operation. From that time on, the post offices at Caskeyville, Orvilton and Lake Eliza were served out of Elk Point, and the courier brought mail to Angle Lake and Northern Valley on his way from Vermilion. J. B. Monkman carried the mail to Elk Point from 1913 to 1928, when the railway was completed to Elk Point.

Charles Hood was Elk Point's first postmaster. In 1928, the post office was relocated from Hood's farm to Joseph Quin's home (located on 50 St. where Elk Point Co-op is now located). Quin was postmaster from 1928 until his death in 1937, when his wife took over until 1945. Their son Robert then took over the position, in a new building which is now the southern part of the new Rona store. He was postmaster until 1964, followed by Fred Kryvenchuk.

This week's question: What was the first bank to open in Elk Point?
